BLUEGRASS A BIG INDUSTRY

ONE CONCERN HERE MAKES 238 STRIPPING MACHINES.

OTHERS HOME BUILT

Much of Seed From Here Is Sent to Kentucky and That State Gets the Credit.

Bluegrass stripping is now in full swing in Northwest Missouri, and Nodaway county is an important part of the stripping zone.

Maryville has contributed its part to the stripping season by sending out both men and machines. One concern, the Armstrong and Sons, foundry, announced that it had completed 238 stripping machines of its own manufacture. Two hundred of them were made for Hardin and Bridgemon of Maitland.

W. M. Armstrong, manager, said that in addition to the complete machines, many bluegrass producers made the wooden parts of the strippers themselves and got the iron parts here at Maryville. The foundry has furnished a total of 300 sets of irons this spring, he said.

Mr. Armstrong took a contract to build the two hundred machines for the Maitland firm by a patent which is owned by Harvey Hardin of that town. All the iron parts were made at the Armstrong foundry on Market street, and the wood parts were made at the shop of the Maryville Lumber Co., with Whitehead and Shelton doing the work. In addition Mr. Armstrong said the foundry had made thirty-eight machines of his own design.

Sent to Four States.

The machines made for the Maitland Company sold for $120 each and the ones made by Armstrong sold for $80. Of the machines made here, some went to Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma, and one inquiry was received this week from the province of Ontario, Canada.

The machine on which Hardin has a patent is of the new type cylinder, light weight stripper, with a 6-foot drum, and a tilt in the box.

Reports from over the county say that more bluegrass is being stripped than ever before, and that the yield is unusually heavy. Much of the bluegrass raised here is sent to Kentucky, where it is sold as Kentucky bluegrass.

According to Jewell Mayes of the State Board of Agriculture at Jefferson City, the heads of the bluegrass this year are well filled, but that delayed farm work is hindering some of the stripping.

Recommendation has been distributed through the bluegrass-stripping counties, urging that sweepings be kept in separate piles and sold apart from the straight seed-heads.

Directions have been broadcast for greater care in curing, in narrow ricks or piles not over 8 inches high, with turning three times per day until certain of preventing of heating.

Other Kinds Worth Less.

The Missouri State Board of Agriculture has adopted spelling "bluegrass" as a single word. While only Kentucky bluegrass is gathered in Missouri, it must be borne in mind that there are other kinds of bluegrass in the market, especially Canada bluegrass, which sells for less and worth less.

Missouri bluegrass is the heaviest weight in the markets of the world, and produces from five to twenty pounds per acre, stripping machines heading from seven to twelve acres per day. There are 2,400,000 seeds in one pound of perfectly cleaned Kentucky bluegrass.

$100 Subscribed Here to Clearmont Fund

A Total of $400 to Be Used in Culvert and Bridge Work on Highway No. 71.

One hundred dollars has been raised among Maryville business men by a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, as a contribution toward a fund to repair culverts and bridges on U. S. Highway No. 71, from the junction of No. 71 and No. 18, two miles east of Burlington Junction, north to the state line.

Clearmont has raised $300 and the combined $400 will be used for the repairing of the bridges. After the work has been done, the highway commission has promised to maintain the road.

The committee from the Chamber of Commerce consisted of C. F. Remus, J. O. Miller, Ed Arnold, and W. F. Phares.

A NEW JUDGE IN BANK SUITS

JOHN A. GERLASH, TARKIO ATTORNEY, TO SIT HERE.

D. E. WILLIAMS TO BAR

Young Graduate of University Is Admitted to Practice of Law.—Court Makes Several Orders.

Enrolled as a member of the Nodaway County bar, John A. Gerlash, a Tarkio attorney, has been named to sit as special judge in preferred and litigated claims against the Real Estate Bank of Maryville, now in the process of liquidation, with E. C. Curfman as special commissioner.

The appointment of Mr. Gerlash was made yesterday in circuit court after Judge Jesse F. Robertson, who had been appointed as special judge, deemed himself disqualified to sit as judge in the trial of all preferred and litigated claims in the cause. The motion to enroll Mr. Gerlash as member of the bar was made by C. F. McCaffrey, a Maryville attorney.

Donald E. Williams, brother of E. E. Williams, local attorney, was enrolled as member of the Nodaway County bar upon motion of E. G. Cook of the firm of McCaffrey and Cook. Donald Williams was graduated from the Maryville High School and has just received his L. L. B. degree from the law school of the University of Missouri.

Judge John M. Dawson yesterday entered an order in the record of the Skidmore Consolidated school case, directing that on the approval of a $1,500 bond by the petitioners, the temporary injunction granted by the court shall remain in full force pending an appeal, except as to the county clerk, Fred Wright, in extending the tax.

The appeal bond had not been filed this morning.

The Cheyenne Milling Company was awarded judgment of $746.82, interest at 8 per cent and $75 attorney fee, on a note, against H. H. Lyle and others, when the defendants defaulted.

W. N. Deatherage, guardian ad litum, in the partition suit of Benjamine Hagey, and others, against Effie G. Williams, and others, was granted attorney fees of $10 in the case. He had been appointed guardian ad litum for the minor defendant, Vera J. Busby, and a decree for partition by sale of lands had been ordered by the court after Effie G. Williams, John A. Williams, Sarah J. Roberts, Henry E. Roberts, Susan Adams, Thomas J. Adams, Viola Lamar, Charles A. Lamar, Frank Hagey, Flora Hagey, Albert C. Hagey and Stella Hagey, defendants, entered appearance in writing and waived issue of service.

Court was adjourned until Friday of this week.

Attorneys for W. E. Bean of Atchison, Kan., have until ten days before the October term of circuit court here, instead of the first day, in his damage suit against the Interstate Stage Line Company on a change of venue, W. R. Tilson, circuit clerk, said today.

President Corrects Rumors at College

Semester Plan Not To Be Adopted Next Year, He States.—To Continue 60-Hour Certificates.

At the weekly assembly held at the State Teachers College this morning, President Uel W. Lamkin corrected two stories that have been circulated about the College. One was that the College would adopt the semester plan next year. Mr. Lamkin said there had merely been talk of this change in faculty meeting, but that the College here would not make the change until the majority of the Teachers Colleges in the state were in favor of it.

"The vote on such a move at the present time would probably be two in favor of the semester plan and three against," Mr. Lamkin said.

The other story reported that the sixty-hour life certificate was no longer to be issued after next year. Mr. Lamkin said this certificate would be issued next year and for several years thereafter and that it would continue to be a life certificate. If and when it is changed it will be done by action of the State and will not affect students who are then in school, he explained.

Mrs. Earl Barmann returned yesterday from Newport, Wash., where she has been spending several months with her mother, who is ill.

County Exhibit to Include 'Everything'

Corn, Hogs, Cattle, Legumes and Other Products Wanted for Nodaway Display at State Fair.

Corn, hogs, cattle, legumes and "everything we can get hold of," will be included in the Nodaway County display at the State Fair at Sedalia this year, according to J. Ross Fleetwood, county agricultural agent, who, with Elmer R. Coats, instructor of agriculture at the high school, spent one day in Sedalia this week conferring on Nodaway's display.

The men made arrangements for display space at the fair. This will be the first time that Nodaway County ever has entered county exhibits at the annual state exposition.

The County Court, Chamber of Commerce of Maryville, Farmers' Union, the Missouri Farmers' association and the Farm Bureau are sponsoring the exhibit.

SNYDER SURE OF AN OFFICE

IS NOMINEE FOR SPANISH VETERANS VICE-COMMANDER.

A CLASH AT MEETING

Kansas City Man Makes Charge Officers Fail To Get Favorable Legislation In This State.

Trenton, Mo., June 15.—Without opposition, Harry Snyder of Maryville this afternoon was elected senior department vice-commander of the United Spanish-American War Veterans. Charles Seaman of St. Louis was elected department commander, Leroy Yattaw of Trenton department junior vice-commander; R. A. Anderson, Kansas City, chaplain and Dr. William L. Sharp, St. Louis, surgeon.

Mr. Snyder held the office of junior vice-commander last year and at the encampment at Maryville a year ago was frequently mentioned for commander but refused to permit his name to be voted on.

The Veterans voted to hold the next encampment at Kirksville next June. Nevada was the only competing city.

Delegates elected to the national convention in Detroit, August 28-31, were J. T. Creviston, A. L. Scroeder of St. Joseph; E. A. Snyder of St. Louis and Louis W. King of Kansas City.

Other members of the Roosevelt camp of Maryville attending the meeting besides Mr. Snyder were Sam Faust of Burlington Junction; E. M. Duke of Stanberry; and Major Rolf Raynor, national aid-de-camp, formerly of Maryville, but now of Columbia.

Mrs. Ora Evans of St. Louis was elected president of the Auxiliary; Martha Yattaw, of Trenton, chaplain; Mrs. Anna Mason of St. Louis, patriotic instructor; and Mrs. Clara Hendrick of St. Louis, judge advocate.

A spirited clash developed at the morning session yesterday in the second day of the twenty-third annual encampment.

Comrade Franklin, of Kansas City stirred up the delegates when he charged department officers with responsibility for failure of the organization to obtain favorable legislation in Missouri, pointing out that other states had passed laws for relief of the veterans.

Places Blame Elsewhere.

Commander Herman A. Finke took up the remarks of Comrade Franklin as containing censure of his office, and with ringing voice he defended himself and cited numerous tasks that had been performed by the department's legislative committee and other officers. He also mentioned the time he had devoted to the work and the trips he had made in the interest of favorable legislation at his own expense, declaring that he could not be silent in the face of an attack upon his character.

The commander was sustained by several delegates on the floor, notably Chaplain Stevens, of the legislative committee, who declares that failure to obtain legislation was chargeable more directly to failure of the comrades to support their officers than to the officers.

No U. S. W. V. Legislation.

Fair legislation for the veterans, who offered their lives for their country and made possible its present security, could be obtained only through united effort, the chaplain said. He read the report of the committee showing that Missouri did not have one law for the Spanish War Veterans.

MISS MILLS IN TALLEY MEET

STUDENT WILL TRY FOR MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP.

TO SING TOMORROW

Girl Prominent in School Life Here Goes to Kansas City; Contest Starts at 9 a. m.

Miss Elizabeth Mills, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. P. Mills, Grant City, and student in the Conservatory of Music of the State Teachers College here, will enter the Marion Talley contest which will be held in Ivanhoe Auditorium, Kansas City, tomorrow. The contestants will draw for the order of performance at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Miss Mills went to Kansas City yesterday to be in readiness for the contest. She was graduated from the Conservatory here this spring in both voice and piano, but is continuing in advance work.

Miss Mills has been prominent in school activities here. She was editor-in-chief of the 1926 Tower, college year book, president of Residence Hall board, vice-president of the student association, and as a junior won the A. A. U. W. scholarship for the highest ranking girl from the standpoint of scholarship, activities and leadership.

The scholarship which is awarded the winner will include living expenses, piano rent, a reasonable allowance for concerts, lessons in voice, theory, piano and languages.

The requirements include the following:

Candidates must be 15 years old, and must not have passed their twenty-fifth birthday by June 16. They must have lived at least two years in Missouri, Kansas or Oklahoma. They are not to be married, and they will be expected to know at least enough piano to play simple accompaniments.

Each contestant will sing a standard operatic or oratorio aria. He should have ready a song of the classic period, a modern song (composed since 1900) and a third song of his own choice.

The administrative committee: Carl Busch, D. Austin Latchaw, John A. Selby. Mr. Busch, who is forced to be out of town June 16, will be replaced by John R. Jones.

Other judges are Dean Donald M. Swarthout, Kansas; Dean James T. Quarles, Missouri and Dean Frederick Holmberg, Oklahoma.

An unusually large number of persons have entered the contest, it was announced.

Powell Weaver has been chosen to accompany the out-of-town contestants unable to furnish accompanists; all local contestants are required to provide their own accompanists. The contest will be managed backstage by Mrs. Dorothy Hatch Colt.

The judges reserve the right to withhold the award if, in their opinion, there is no contestant who gives promise of a successful career, and the right to stop any contestant whenever they feel that the contestant has sufficiently demonstrated his abilities. Stopping a contestant will not, it was said, indicate in any way the qualty of performance, but only that the six judges each feel he has heard enough to be able to rank the performer.

Dr. Frederick Cook Must Serve His Term

"Discoverer" Of North Pole Who Was Convicted In 1923 Will Spend All Of 14 Years, In Jail.

New Orleans, June 15.—Dr. Frederick Cook, noted Arctic explorer and once known as the discoverer of the North Pole, must serve his sentence of fourteen years and nine months for using the mails to defraud.

The refusal to grant the probationary period marked another step in the test of the probation act of March 4, 1925, in an attempt to settle several controversial points.

The decision held the language of the probationary act "does not justify the conclusion it was intended to release from imprisonment a person confined in execution of a conviction rendered at a term of court which has expired, or that it changed, modified or to any extent repealed or superseded the statutes dealing with the subject."

Dr. Cook was convicted in November, 1923, in the Northern Texas district court.

Mrs. J. O. Dougan and Miss May Dougan of Bolckow were shopping in Maryville today.

TIRE PATCH LAST TRACE OF BANDIT

Matthew Kimes, Oklahoma 'Bad Boy' Disappears After Stealing Auto, Baby and Chief of Police.

Cleveland, Okla., June 15.—Matthew Kimes, "bad boy" bandit hunted for months by Southwest officers, today disappeared again into the Osage hills, leaving only a tire patch as last evidence of search.

Kimes, after stealing a motor car, unwarily kidnaping an infant in the back seat, then dropping the infant to take up the chief of police at Jennings, Okla., as a forced passenger, tying the chief to a tree for the evening, finally shook off trailing gangs of citizens and officers.

Officers found evidence of his quick tire change on the Jennings-Cleveland highway south of here, and there the trail ended.

The hunt started early this morning when the chief of police at Jennings, notified officers of Kimes' presence. The chief had attempted to check Kimes as he drove through Jennings and the bandit had taken the chief prisoner.

Files Suit Against Defunct Bank at B. J.

George M. Brown Sues For $1,568.75 Alleging Institution And Its Officers Forged His Name.

George M. Brown, living southeast of Burlington Junction, today filed a claim in circuit court against the defunct Northwestern Bank of Burlington Junction for $1,568.75 and costs, alleging the Bank and its officers had forged his name on a note and defrauded him of the foregoing sum.

He claimed that prior to January 11, 1925, he had a large sum of money on deposit, and had directed the bank to charge $1,548.10 and interest of $20.65 against his account, in discharging a note he owed the bank. He alleges that the bank sent him a cancelled note through the mail, but that the purported note was not his note and that he had not executed it nor signed it. The bank failed to credit him, he says, leaving his indebtedness unpaid, which he has since been required to pay in full.

A MEMORIAL TO LINDBERGH

$1,000,000 CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED TO BUY ROOSEVELT FIELD.

MITCHELL HITS NAVY

Former Chief Declares Policy Is To "Keep Aviation Down."—Blamed for Engine Trouble.

Mineola, N. Y., June 15.—A $1,000,000 campaign to honor Charles Lindbergh will be started here tomorrow. The fund will be used to purchase Roosevelt Field, from which Lindbergh's flight to Paris started, as a permanent memorial to the aviator.

A general committee was organized to handle the campaign, each member pledging to work thirty-three hours, thirty-three and one-half minutes, the time Lindbergh was in the air.

It was hoped to raise the $1,000,000 in thirty-three days.

Pleads For Air Progress.

New York, June 15.—Colonel Lindbergh today pleaded before a joint luncheon of the state Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Association for development of commercial air service and adequate military and naval air forces in the United States.

It was one of the longest speeches he has made. It lasted nearly twenty minutes. Lindbergh compared the development of commercial aviation in this country and in Europe. He confessed he was embarrassed in Europe when asked whether American had airports to compare with those at Paris and at London.

Three thousand guests cheered and applauded when Lindbergh was introduced and duplicated the demonstration during his address.

Mitchell Assails Navy.

Washington, June 15.—William Mitchell, formerly in charge of the United States army aviation overseas, charged today in a letter to the Washington Post that the Navy had used Charles Lindbergh for propaganda purposes and was responsible for the motor troubles in his plane.

A letter from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Warner, printed beside Mitchell's letter, absolved the Navy from blame in connection with the plane.

Mitchell said behind the difficulty lay "the spirit which the Navy has always held toward aviation, that of keeping it down and under."

"It is the saying now, 'Join the Navy and see the world, but join the naval aviation and see the next world'," he wrote.

Mitchell insisted there was no excuse for permitting the engine of Lindbergh's plane to be dampened by salt air.

Warner held that the defect had been developing for some time and that the Navy was blameless.

Pianist Pleases An Enthusiastic Audience

William S. Naylor Displays Masterful Technique While Preserving Sympathetic Expression.

William S. Naylor, piano teacher at the College Conservatory of Music,, appeared in his first public recital in Maryville this morning at the weekly assembly at the College. Mr. Naylor's playing disclosed fine musicianship and temperament. At no time was his manner affected nor did he let his technique, which was pure, clean, and amply fleet, ever overshadow his true expression of emotional beauty.

With the first crashing chords of the C sharp minor Polonaise of Chopin, the recital began. The program was most artistically built. After the Polonaise, with its martial air, ponderous chords, and the beautiful melody in the second division, came the "Berseuse," also by Chopin. If there was one point in the program which was highest, it was reached in this number. The lulling melody, accompanied by a rocking effect in the bass; the melody at times almost obscured by a host of marvelous embellishments, but always coming back and finally dying away; all were beautifully played. Next came a "Nocturne" (which means "night song") by Debussy. Debussy's style is always attractive, and Mr. Naylor handled the artistic runs and trills with their echoing effects in this piece with ease and beauty.

The program closed with a transcription of Strauss's "Voices in the Vienna Woods" by Shutt. This number was dashing and in waltz form. Mr. Naylor showed his technical mastery of the piano in this selection which was played with exceeding ease and freedom.

The audience, which included the student body at the college and several townspeople, was enthusiastic in its applause of the program.

Dempsey and Sharkey will meet July 21 at the Yankee Stadium before a crowd which Rickard confidently expects will pay $1,000,000 although no champion is on the card.

Each of the fighters will get 25 per cent of the gate, it is understood.

Dempsey has been training in California for several weeks and will come east and take over his former training quarters.

Sharkey's remarkable showing against Maloney probably will make him at least an even money bet in the Dempsey bout, and if the fight is won by a knockout by either man the victor will find many backers when he meets Tunney. The championship fight is tentatively set for September.

Mrs. Melissa Casteel Struck by Automobile

Left Elbow Broken And Other Injuries Sustained In Accident Called Unavoidable.

Mrs. Melissa Casteel, 702 East First street, is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Wallace, 722 East First street, recovering from a broken left elbow and bruises, suffered late yesterday afternoon when she was hit by an automobile and thrown against the curb in front of her home.

The accident was said to have been unavoidable. As Mrs. Casteel was retracing her steps across the street to get out of the path of a touring car coming from the east, driven by Howard Bryant, she stepped in front of a coupe being driven from the west by two unknown young men.

Mrs. Casteel had previously gone across the street to talk to her grandson, Walter Mutz, who was in a wagon.

The men in the coupe assisted Mrs. Casteel to the St. Francis hospital, which is in the block west on First street from the Casteel home. A broken bone in her left elbow was removed.

Mrs. Casteel also suffered a sprained right wrist, a gash over her left eye and a bump on the right side of her head. She was able to walk to the hospital this morning for further treatment.

COMETS PLAY WORST GAME

TARKIO WINS A POOR EXHIBITION BY 11-0 SCORE.

A BATTLE TO START

For Six Innings It Lasts, Then Maryville Team Accends.—Three Hits Off Tarkio Hurler.

(By a Staff Correspondent)

Playing their worst game of the year, the Maryville Comets sprawled all over a fast diamond at Tarkio yesterday to lose a miserable exhibition to the Tarkio Club, 11 to 0. Buhler was off color, walking seven Tarkio batters and throwing away a ball that let in a run. He was backed up by support that was nothing to brag about, while umpire Knuckles, calling balls, strikes and bases, did not crown himself with glory.

Anyhow, the Comets tossed the game away in the best baseball plant that will be found in Northwest Missouri outside of St. Joseph, and came home feeling that if they had all those boneheads to make, it was better to get them out of their systems yesterday than in a league game.

Tarkio plays ball on each Tuesday during the summer, and it is well demonstrated there what support will do for a ball club. Five hundred or so fans packed a neat little grandstand there yesterday, entertained between innings by a creditable band. Next Tuesday, another Nodaway County team, Hopkins, will offer resistance to Tarkioites in the same ball park.

But about this game the Comets floundered in. Tarkio got seven hits off Buhler and counted eleven runs as Maryville booted the ball for six errors. The scores came in the second, third, seventh and eighth innings for Tarkio, four each in the last two times they came to bat, while Maryville never threatened, getting a man only as far as second base and finding Davis, a twirler from Auburn, Neb., for but three measley hits.

Comets Open With A Hit.

The Comets went to bat first and Phil Tobin beat out a grounder between first and second for a hit. Then Arthur forced him at second, and Lewis did likewise with Arthur. Search went out, Davis to Watson, leaving Lewis on the first sack.

The Maryville defense was functioning well in the first frame and retired three Tarkio batsmen, one of them by the strikeout route. But in the second inning Old Man Watson clouted out a three-bagger and came home as Buhler threw a pitched ball over Tobin's head. They scored twice more in the third, after Castle had flied to Schultz and Davis struck out. Ruley walked, Kaufman got a single, and Yale walked. Another hit by Watson sent Ruley and Kaufman across the rubber and the side was retired as Schultz caught McBride's fly.

The game then took on the air of a real contest until the fateful seventh, the Comets all the while going to bat but offering little resistance. With walks, hits and bungles, the Comets presented Tarkio with four runs in this seventh inning mix-up. Castle, first man up, walked. Davis pushed out a double and Castle scored. Ruley got to first on Tobin's error and then Kaufman took an inopportune time to double, scoring Ruley. Yale flied to Caywood but again an error by the shortstop put Watson on first and Kaufman came home, after stealing third. The stanza ended with McBride popping to Lewis and Childers fanned.

In their half of the same inning the Comets got men on bases, but failed to menace. Arthur took the first sack on Watson's error. Lewis flied out and Search forced Arthur at second. Schultz singled, but went to sleep and was caught off first.

Eighth Inning Worse.

The eighth inning was terrible, too. Pyers singled. Castle went out to second. Davis scored on Caywood's bobble and Ruley got on when Schultz failed to hold a fly back of second. Nixon, replacing Kaufman, walked, and a single was offered by Yale. Meanwhile, Ruley and Nixon scored. Yale was caught at the plate and Watson went out, Lewis to Iba. It is rather a peculiar circumstance that Iba at first got only three putouts during the eight times Maryville was in the field.

Flag Service at Elks Club Is Impressive

Small Crowd Present As History Of The Nation's Banner Is Outlined In Speech And Song.

The Flag Day services held last night at the Elks Club, although not so largely attended as they should have been were well planned and very impressive. The band for the occasion was a combined organization of townsmen and the State Teachers College band. At about 8:15 p. m. the first chord of the "Star Spangled Banner" was struck and the services were formally begun.

After the introductory exercises, which were conducted by officers of the lodge, the Rev. R. A. Mitchell offered the invocation. Then the assembly sang "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

Fred Wolfers read the history of the flag, in which he traced the steps in the making of the Nation's flag from its earliest beginning to the present time. Mr. Wolfers was assisted by members of the Boy Scout organization, who brough out flags of different periods as they were described, and William S. Naylor, Vernon Barrett and Paschal Monk, who either played or sang about each flag as it was displayed.

The history was answered by Uel W. Lamkin, who traced the development of the United States politically and industrially. At the altar service which followed, different officers of the lodge decorated the altar with wreaths of red roses, lilies, and violets, which when completed, formed a likeness of the Liberty Bell in red, white and blue.

The band played a medley of Southern airs which was followed by "America," sung by the entire assembly.

A. T. Estes Wins in Ad Writing Contest

Local Man Is Successful in Omaha World-Herald Competition.—Mrs. Estes Wins, Too.

A. T. Estes, 122 North Walnut street, was a prize winner in the amateur ad writing contest, sponsored by the Omaha World Herald last week and again this week.

"I started in for the fun of it," Mr. Estes said, "but the first week I won a fountain pen, so I have several ads in now."

Mr. Estes won a first prize offered by the Fischer Millinery Store, and other prizes of the Hospe Piano Co., Karges Hosiery Co., and the Pantatorium Cleaners. Mrs. Estes won a prize from the Fairmont Delicia Ice Cream Co., and also from the Fischer Millinery Store, but neither know the prizes they are to receive this week.

There are thirty-seven firms entered in the contest, which lasts for eight weeks. Each firm offers prizes for the best ads about its products each week, and the best ad about any firm for the week receives a prize of $50. The grand prize for the best ad in the contest is $500, and some of the firms have agreed to double this amount if the winning ad concerns them. The two best ads are printed each Sunday, along with other winning ads, but the ads all belong to the respective firms about which they are written.

Miss Ruth Bookman left yesterday morning for Moline, Ill., where she will visit Miss Jeanne Sohner for a week.

ILLINOIS GANG WAR IS OVER

LONG SERIES OF MURDERS AND OUTRAGES BELIEVED ENDED.

LEADER UNDER ARREST

Charlie Birger, Head of One of Two Rival Groups, Faces Trial With Four Henchmen.

Marion, Ill., June 15.—Ten men were indicted by the Williamson County grand jury this afternoon for the murder of Lorie Price, state highway patrolman and his wife.

Benton, Ill., June 15.—Gang warfare in Southern Illinois appears to have come to an end with Charlie Birger, notorious leader, and four of his henchmen facing first degree murder indictments, following the finding the body of Mrs. Lory Price, slain wife of an Illinois highway patrolman, in an abandoned mine shaft near here. The once powerful rival gangs of Birger's and the Shelton brothers' have broken up and the members for the most part are either behind bars or being sought by officers.

The confession of Art Newman, and the clearing of the mystery which has surrounded the murder of Lory Price and his wife since last January, brings to a close another bloody chapter in Southern Illinois crime history, the like of which makes any story of early frontier banditry seem child's play in comparison.

Since the first killing back in February, 1925, "Little Egypt" has shaken and trembled in deadly fear, not knowing who next would be yanked from his family and fireside and taken to a lonely spot and foully murdered.

Started Early in 1925.

By way of reviewing the Southern Illinois gang killings, it is necessary to go back to the murder which started all the trouble. It all started when Art Newman killed Charles Gordon in the Shelton Brothers' place in East St. Louis in February, 1925. Newman was acquitted of the murder but maintained the Sheltons tried to "frame" him. He alleged the Sheltons were trying to knock him off because he knew too much about the Collinsville mail robbery.

Harry Walker, former Herrin policeman and bodyguard of S. Glenn Young, and Everett Smith, were shot to death in August, 1926, at a roadhouse which has since been burned, just north of Marion. A man by the name of Telford is alleged to have done the shooting. He disappeared and was later reported near the Mexican border, but was not returned for trial.

William Holland (commonly called Wild Bill), said to have been a body guard of the Sheltons, was killed Sept. 12, shortly after leaving a road house near Herrin. His body was riddled with bullets fired from two cars of what was said to have been Birger men. Mr. and Mrs. Max Pulliam were seriously wounded at the same time. Pulliam was assaulted while on his way to the Benton hospital in an ambulance a week later, his mother perhaps saving his life by throwing her arms about his neck and begging for mercy as the gangsters beat him into unconsciousness.

Bartenders Found Dead.

William McQuay and Ward Jones, bartenders at Shady Rest were found dead Oct. 26. Jones, shot eight times, was found in a creek near Equality, over in Gallatin County. McQuay, shot 16 times, was found in a bullet-riddled car on the dirt road between Herrin and Johnson City. He had been run down while en route to Herrin from West Frankfort. Birger declared vengeance upon the Sheltons for the killing of these two men, although some of Birger's own men have since been indicted for the Jones murder.

Jeff Stone, mayor of Colp, and his friend, John Milroy, were killed at Colp, late in November, 1926.

The murder of Mayor Joe Adams at West City, Dec. 12, has been explained by Harry Thomasson, who is now doing life for the murder, and for which Birger, Connie and Ray Hyland have been indicted because of Thomasson's confession and facts which coincide with statements the life-termer made. Thomasson said he and his brother, Elmo, who was later killed when Shady Rest was bombed and burned, were hired by Birger and his aides to kill Adams. He said they received $150 for the murder. This represented $50 a shot and was divided equally between the Thomassons and Ray Hyland, who drove the car, according to Thomasson's story.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve George, Elmo Thomasson and Bert Owens lost their lives at Shaddy Rest on the night of January 9 of this year when the place was bombed and burned This burning has been attributed to members of the Birger gang.

Kidnapping and Murder.

Last comes the kidnapping and murder of Lony Price and wife. This occurred on Monday night, Jan. 17. Price's body was found with thirteen bullet holes in it near Nashville some 22 days later, and Mrs. Price's body was recovered only this week from an abandoned mine shaft near here. Price, a highway patrolman, is said to have "known too much" having been at Shady Rest an hour before it was bombed.

As for the men, whose names have been mentioned in connection with the two gangs:

Carl, Earl and Bernie Shelton were convicted of the Collinsville mail robbery and sentenced for 25 years in the federal penitentiary at Ft. Leavenworth. They were later granted a new trial when Harvey Dungy, who was a star witness for the prosecution made an affidavit that he testified falsely at the trial. They have been returned here and are to be given a new trial.

Blackie Arms, said to be a Shelton gangster, is doing time in the Federal penitentiary for violation of the Dyer act. Harry Thomasson was convicted in Williamson County court March 5 along with Danny Brown and Ray Rome for highway robbery and given ten years. Since then Thomasson has plead guilty to the Joe Adams murder and is now doing life.

Newman Under Arrest.

Freddie Wooten is serving a sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for inter-state transportation of a stolen automobile. Connie Ritter is still a fugitive from justice, having been implicated in the Price murders along with Birger, Ernest Blue, Leslie Simpson, and Riley Simmons, by Art Newman's confession. Harve Dungy, a Birger aide, is in the Williamson County jail on a highway robbery charge.

Newman was arrested at Long Beach, Calif., a few days ago and returned to Franklin County to face charges of complicity in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams, West City. He is in the jail at Bellville and implicated by his own confession in the murder of Lory Price. His wife is also under arrest in connection with the same crime.

Missing King City Banker Heard From

Brother of Jacob Levy Said to Have Received Word He Is on Way to Daughter's in Texas.

King City, Mo., June 15.—According to report, word has been received by Charles Levy, brother of Jacob Levy, missing vice-president of the Farmers Trust Company, which failed to open for business May 31, that Levy is on his way to Port Arthur, Tex., to visit his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Brooke.

Levy's whereabouts for the last two weeks are as yet unknown. Neighbors report that for several nights previous to Levy's departure, a light was seen late into the night in Levy's home where he has lived by himself since the death of his wife, about three years ago. On the night of his departure Levy carried box after box of supposedly family belongings that he wanted to take with him, and put them into his Ford coupe.

While the stir was unusual for Levy, yet nothing particular was thought about it, as he spent many week-ends in St. Joseph with relatives and friends. It is now believed that he planned for his departure for some days.

The state has turned the affairs of the defunct Farmers Trust Company over to C. E. Potter, who will liquidate the affairs of the bank. No criticism of Levy is heard on the streets. There is no noticable depression in business since the closing of the bank.

NOT TOO LATE YET FOR CORN

DELAYED PLANTING NOT FATAL, COUNTY AGENT POINTS OUT.

GIVES "CATCH CROP"

Soybeans, Cow Peas, Sudan Grass, Kaffirs, Buckwheat, Rape and Sorghums Mature Quickly.

Although it is now three or four weeks later than the usual "corn planting time" in Nodaway, there is still time, according to J. Ross Fleetwood, county farm agent, to produce a good corn crop.

A check made today by J. R. Brink, local weather observer, shows the average date for the first killing frost to be about October 14, which allows practically the full four months period for growing standard varieties to maturity.

Mr. Brink arrived at his estimate by averaging the first killing frost dates in all the thirty-five years he has been keeping the local records. The earliest date on record for a killing frost, he said, is September 18, while the latest is November 1.

Given suitable weather conditions from now on, it will be possible to grow a fair corn crop, even from replanted land, County Agent Fleetwood pointed out, with Mr. Brink's figures to back him up.

Reid's Yellow Dent, the variety most commonly grown, requires 115 to 120 days for maturity. Silver Mine matures in 100 to 110 days and northern varieties such as Minnesota No. 13 and Golden Glow (Wisconsin No. 12) will mature in 90 days or less.

There is still time to grow soybeans and cow peas as the best planting date for these crops is from May 25 to June 15 and they will mature if planted later.

Sudan Grass Any Time.

Sudan grass can be sown anytime during the next month and should make from one to three tons of hay per acre. The usual rate of seeding is 15 to 30 pounds per acre. A grain drill set to sow two pecks of wheat to the acre will sow 20 to 25 pounds of Sudan grass per acre.

Early Amber sorghum, Kaffir corn, Milo, Feterita, and White Durra may be planted up into the first part of July, and will usually produce a good crop of grain and forage.

The Kaffirs or grain sorghums are nearly equal to corn in feeding value. Sorghum requires 8 to 15 pounds per acre and the Kaffirs 3 to 12 pounds if planted in rows.

Buckwheat has a short growing season requiring only 10 to 12 weeks to mature. It can be sown where corn has failed to make a stand and will produce around 15 to 30 bushels of grain which is somewhat like oats in feeding value and is considered to be a very good poultry feed.

Phosphate Will Help.

Dwarf Essex rape is a valuable pasture plant for hogs and sheep and may be sown as late as August. It requires a fertile soil. The rate of seeding is 5 to 8 pounds per acre.

Corn planted late has a much better chance of maturing if given a boost by applying 150 to 200 pounds per acre of 16 per cent acid phosphate with a grain drill ahead of the planted or 50 to 100 pounds of high grade mixed fertilizer applied in the row with a fertilizer attachment on the planter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Coffing of Cameron have been guests at the home of their daughter, Mrs. H. Frank Lawrence, on West second street, since last week.

COUNTERFEIT INSIDE PRISON

PLOT IS UNCOVERED WITHIN MISSOURI PENITENTIARY.

SECOND WITHIN WEEK

Saturday Enough Explosive Was Found to Blow Up Entire Institution.—Planned to Make $20 Bills.

Jefferson City, June 15.—Nike G. Sevier, prosecuting attorney of Cole county last night revealed the details of a plot through which the industrial department of the state penitentiary here has been defrauded of approximately $22,000 worth of manufactured materials in the last seven or eight months.

H. Greenstein, proprietor of Herman's Bargain House of Kansas City, a man named Lyle, formerly a Kansas City broker, and Fred O'Neil, a Kansas City convict, until last week employed in the industrial department as a bookkeeper, are the three principals in the plot, according to Sevier, who today, in a letter addressed to Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, chairman of the state penal board, urged immediate prosecution of the three.

Greenstein confessed his part in the affair to Karl Autenreith, auditor for the prison, at Kansas City last week and assumed voluntarily $19,452 of the $22,000, Mr. Sevier declared, although Greenstein professed to have received but $5,000 from Lyle as his share of the operations.

Jefferson City, June 15.—A plan to three Kansas City convicts to flood the Missouri capital with counterfeit $20 federal reserve bank notes, manufactured in the Bertillon department of the state penitentiary here, was discovered and blocked yesterday by Leslie Rudolph, warden, and Joseph Livingston, head of the Bertillon department.

The men, Mack Callan, serving seven years, William McCoy, ten years, and Melvin Ely, seven years, all for robbery, are in solitary confinement awaiting the action of the next federal grand jury.

Callan was the leader, Rudolph said today. He was employed in the Bertillon room and through his connection there was enabled to requisition supplies needed in counterfeiting the bills. He was arrested late today by Rudolph Livingston and W. H. Davenport of Kansas City, who is in charge of the secret service there.

Four Plates Found

Four photographic plates of $20 notes and a counterfeit note were found in Callan's clothing, Rudolph said. The note Rudolph declared, was perfect except as to color.

Concealed in a corner of the Bertillon room was a complete layout of engravers' tools and the necessary chemicals for printing the notes.

Another note was found on McCoy and a third had been given to Ely, according to Callan's confession. Ely denied any connection with the plot and none of the notes was found in his possession.

The plot was discovered when a prisoner, to whom one of the notes had been given by McCoy to be exchanged into prison tokens, attempted to exchange it at the warden's office. An investigation by Rudolph and Livingston revealed the tools and materials. They seized Callan when he went to get them.

One of Smoothest Ever.

"It is one of the smoothest counterfeiting stunts that has been attempted," Davenport said. "If it hadn't been for the vigilance of Rudolph and Livingston, those convicts could have flooded the state with fake notes in a week or so and the penitentiary would have been the last place we would have looked for the counterfeiting plant."

The counterfeiting scheme is the second plot of major proportions to be discovered in the penitentiary within a week. The confession Saturday of a convict, who said he was prevailed upon by his mother to "make a clean breast of it," revealed a plan by other inmates to dynamite a wall of the prison. Enough explosive was found, it was announced to blow up the entire penitentiary.

Eugene Moore to Fair School Again

County's Representative at Sedalia Last Year Wins Second Trip by An Essay.

Eugene Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Moore, southwest of Maryville, has been awarded a trip to the Boys' State Fair School at Sedalia this year, it has been announced by W. G. Dillon, superintendent of the Boys' School.

Eugene went to the fair and to the school last year as county winner of the school examinations held to decide who would be awarded the trip.

This year the 200 boys who attended last year wrote essays on the trip and the winners were awarded a trip again this fall. Eugene won on his essay.

Delmar Schooler, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schooler, a student at Bell Grove school, who won the county scholarship awarded by Maryville High School, is the county champion who will attend the fair this year as the county's representative.

Eugene Moore received a letter from Sedalia stating that his expenses would be paid after he arrived at the fair and instructing him to "bring towel, comb, soap and blanket, the same as last year."

Eugene's essay was published some time ago in the Democrat-Forum and Tribune.

ECLIPSE OF MOON PLAIN; SEEN HERE

Last Night Featured Also by Lowest Temperature on Record, With One Exception.

A partial eclipse of the moon between 3:21 and 3:45 a. m. and a near low temperature record featured a night which ended this morning with the dawn of a perfect June day.

The mercury fell to 45 degrees, with one exception the lowest minimum temperature for the date in the thirty-five years weather-records have been kept here, according to J. R. Brink, official weather observer.

The exception was in 1917, when on the night of June 14-15, the temperature fell to 42 degrees.

The eclipse of the moon was plainly visible here, and throughout the western hemisphere. The moon was eclipsed while in a southwesterly direction and the lower hand corner of the orb was seen to be covered.

The eclipse, scientists explained, was caused by the earth coming between the sun and the moon, shutting off direct sunlight from our satellite. The moon cut through the outer shadow, or penumbra of the earth and slowly crossed into the umbra or dark shadow.

The eclipse is the first of three events to occur this month. Another will be an eclipse of the sun and the third the appearance of a comet, which may be seen about 3 a. m. June 26. The sun's eclipse will be June 29 but will not be visible here.

Mrs. George Hees, St. Joseph, came Monday to be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burton.

CHAPTER LVI

"Maybe I didn't scheme and try to hurt Nyda's and Winnie's chances," Billy told T. Q. Curtis, "but for months I have hoped that I would win."

"Why, Billy? Why did you change your mind? You told Clay, you say, that you wanted only the year—the year in which to study the violin and prepare yourself for a career. Can you have a little more patience with an old man, a puzzled, heartbroken old man, my dear, and try to explain?"

"I'll try," she said huskily. "It all began when Navratil told me it would take years and years for me to become a great violinist. I saw then that a year would not do, and I wanted more. Then luxury began to soften me, break down my sturdy independence, as Clay used to call it. I couldn't bear the thought of giving up my lovely room and delicate food and dancing and popularity with the kind of people I had always admired and wanted to be friends with. I became extravagant, bought clothes I couldn't afford, even on the big allowance you gave me. I used to go home and hate the little house in Poplar street where mother and Clay have seemed to be so happy. Oh, it sounds so tawdry—it is tawdry!" she amended bitterly.

"I think I understand," T. Q. prodded her gently. "Go on, Billy child."

"Don't speak like that to me, as if you still liked me!" Billy cried out in anguish. "I'm not worth it, Mr. Curtis, any more than Nyda and Winnie are. Can't you see I'm not? The same things happened to them that happened to me. Nyda was trapped. She was married to a man whom she came to despise, although I believe she still loved him. Men like Bruce Kruger and Ralph Truman and Gil Warburton made Eddie Banning seem pretty small."

"You're very fair, my dear," T. Q said, thoughtfully.

"Oh, I've had many hours to think it all over!" she assured him bitterly. Nyda must have been on pins and needles the whole time, wondering just when she would be exposed. Eddie gave her no peace the whole time. Of course he made her go on with it, because she was getting five hundred a month out of you. I'm sure it was Eddie's scheme to rob the safe, and that Nyda was simply scared into helping him. Winnie had the same thing happen to her as happened to me. She couldn't bear the idea of going back to poverty and to clerking in the store. She knew she would never make a success as a private secretary—and what if she could have done so? The most she could have earned the first year or so would have been thirty or thirty-five dollars a week, and she'd been dressing on five hundred dollars a month! When she found that all her efforts to endear herself to you, to make herself indispensable, had failed—"

"And do you know why it was you and not Winnie who won?" T. Q. interrupted her, with a quizzical smile breaking through his dejection.

"No," Billy answered, surprised. "I haven't had time to wonder—but I do wonder! I can't see why—"

"I've been fairly sure it would be you since the first month,' T. Q. told her gently. "You were the only one who had a genuine ambition, who had not resorted to a trick. You really wanted to be a violinist, you had genius, you were inherently a worthwhile person, a girl I could be proud of as my daughter. But Nyda and Winnie, sweet as I thought them, had tricked me in answering the questionnaire and in writing the essays—"

"Then—you knew all the time that Nyda didn't really want to be a kindergarten teacher and that Winnie would never be a real secretary, because she really didn't want to be?" Billy asked incredulously.

"Of course, my dear!" He smiled again, with a touch of his old humor.

"I'm not such a fool as you girls may have thought me! I admit that during the year I have been sadly disappointed in you at times, because you did not make the most of your opportunity to study music—"

"I neglected it shamefully!" Billy cried. "I'd give you anything in the world to have the opportunity all over again—" But she interrupted herself, knowing that for the first time during that painful confession she had told a lie. She would not give anything in the world to have the year again, for more than she wanted fame she wanted love, and love meant—

"I have not changed my mind because of your dreadful confession," T. Q. said, with the smile still on his lips. "I still want you, Billy, as my daughter. I had hoped—once—that you might by my daughter-in-law, and that Presley Warburton would have won his wager after all that I would not go through with my scheme to adopt a daughter. But—I suppose that is all off, my dear?"

"Yes," Billy answered in a low voice, and again she was surprised to feel the sharp stab of pain in her heart that always caught her when she thought of Clay Curtis. "But I —I can't do it, Mr. Curtis. I—oh, please, don't ask me to explain any more"

"I was sure, absolutely sure," T. Q. went on, as if he had not heard her last words, "when I saw how you bore yourself under my unjust suspicions at the time of the safe robbery. It was then that I had Warburton draw up the papers on the adoption. Now that we understand each other so completely, Billy, can you give me any real reason why you don't want to stay on? You can study music for as many years as you like, go to Europe to study, if you wish, and I shall only ask that I may spend part of my time there with you. I am thinking of selling the store. This year has tired me out. It is not the same place, since jealousy and intrigue have become floorwalkers there," he admitted sadly.

Billy's resolution wavered. She was about to stretch out her hand to him in surrender when the thought of Dal Romaine restrained her. T. Q. thought he could trust her—utterly—but she knew that it was not for the sake of music that she wanted to win the secret contest. She had wanted, these last months, to win so that she might be more desirable in Dal's eyes. She was engaged to be married to Dal Romaine. No, she could not accept T. Q.'s offer, for she knew that T. Q. disliked Romaine intensely.

She was not even tempted for a moment, after she had worked the thing out rapidly in her mind, to take T. Q.'s offer, no matter what effect her refusal would have upon Dal. If he loved her, he would want her for herself alone. Why had she doubted him? Dal did not, could not know of T. Q.'s plan to adopt one of the girls. He had proposed to her, knowing that at the end of the year she would again be a shop girl, without social standing or financial prospects. Of course he loved her! Could any girl ask for better proof?

"I can't accept your offer, Mr. Curtis," she said at last. "Please don't ask me to explain, though you have every right to. I—I have other plans for my life. Please don't look so—so sad, Mr. Curtis! Clay will come home soon. I'm sure of it. He has proved his point. He has made good independently of you. He will be a rich man, if he wants to be, and if he prefers to spend all his time writing great music, which does not pay well, except in soul satisfaction, he will hardly be such a fool as to insist on living in poverty. He can at least make enough money with an occasional popular song to pay his part of the living expenses here, and I am sure he will be happy to come home."

"I wish I were sure of it!" T. Q. said sadly. Then he raised his head and squared his shoulders, as if accepting her decision heroically and determining to make the best of it. "I'm sorry, Billy. Strangely enough, I never liked you so well before. I hope you will be very happy, my child."

"May I leave today, Mr. Curtis?" she asked timidly, as they stood together, the old man's arm across her shoulders. "It won't be easy for either of us—after today—"

"I suppose you are right, my dear," he agreed reluctantly.

"If Winnie and I both leave today, there will be less talk than if only Winnie left," she reassured him.

"There's the problem of Viola, the colored girl," T. Q. frowned. "I don't know how to keep her from gossiping."

"I have an idea," Billy grinned up at him with an effort at cheerfulness. "I seem to be very free with your money, Mr. Curtis, but I think it would be wise to pack Viola off to New York. She's been simply dying to go there, because her sweetie's living there now, and so is her married sister. Tell her you'll give her the trip to New York, plus a month's wages, if she'll sign a written agreement never to mention the events of today to anyone. If she gosspied in New York, there could be little harm come of it, but I'll guarantee she won't dare talk here before she goes, or write back home to any of her friends about it."

"Thank you, child," T. Q. said humbly. "I shall follow your advice in both cases. I can see that you would have been a great help to me as my daughter."

Billy flung her arms about his neck then, and kissed him on both cheeks. "You're a darling and I love you, and I wish I could stay with you forever and ever. I can't thank you in words, but my heart is full of gratitude for all you have done for me—and wanted to do."

She ran from the room to keep from bursting into tears. As she started up the stairs her eyes chanced to glance at the great clock in the hall. Half-past six! Only half-past six! Lives had been wrecked and hearts broken since she had parted with Dal Romaine at five o'clock.

She sped up the stairs, her feet winged by an urgent necessity for haste. And as she flung open the door to her own room she was praying incoherently: "Please God, make him be there! Please, God!"

Her voice trembled so when she called a number on her telephone that she had to repeat it before the operator understood. It was long minutes—minutes packed with despair—before a soft, caressing voice answered.

Romaine seems disappointed that Billy is leaving T. Q.'s home. Nevertheless, he tells her they will get married at once.

Health Perpetual on Fanning Island

Sydney, June 15.—Doctors in search of fame and fortune are advised not to go to Fanning Island, the mid-Pacific station of the Pacific Cable Board line.

G. O. Whitelaw, an official of the cable board who recently returned to this city, declared there had been only one serious case of sickness among the island's small population in 25 years.

Louisiana—Plans for organizing a merce were discussed at a recent Northeast Missouri Chamber of Com- Chamber of Commerce meeting here.

ISO=VIS

Takes the "guess" out of lubrication!

It's a great satisfaction to know that your car is thoroughly lubricated—that there's no danger of the oil thinning out, no matter how long your trip.

If you use Iso=Vis, you can know that satisfaction. There was no guesswork in the making of this motor oil. It was carefully and painstakingly developed to meet the new theory of scientific lubrication.

There's no guesswork about its performance either. Iso=Vis lubricates a car with a new efficiency—always on the job every mile of every trip! One of the thousands of appreciative letters the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has received, relating actual experiences with Iso=Vis, is reproduced below:

Mr. C.H. Troeger, Sales Manager
Standard Oil Co. (Ind)
Des Moines, Iowa
Dear Sir:
To me it is a great satisfaction to have the guess taken out of lubrication. I'll tell you why.
For 5,215 miles, since ISO-VIS came on the market, I have positively proven that a normal filling of your new product will run my Dodge well over 1,000 miles, without change and without adding a drop.
This has been done under a great variation of conditions, such as temperature, roads and mileage per day. Nothing that goes on outside my motor seems to have the slightest influence on the service I get from ISO-VIS.
And yet, after getting this service out of the oil, the lubricating quality is so good that it seems a shame to throw it away!
Then, there is the saving in oil cost. On a basis of actual service, my oil cost with ISO-VIS is less than half the amount I used to spend on other oils.
To state it tersely—to me ISO-VIS means a better lubrication service at a much lowered cost per mile.
Very truly yours,

Iso=Vis takes the "guess" out of lubrication because it maintains constant viscosity—it is always the same. The body is as good at the finish as it was at the start—in fact it "seems a shame to throw it away"!

According to statistics, ordinary oil loses two-thirds of its body before the car has gone 200 miles. That explains the big difference motorists notice when they start using Iso=Vis—the greater smoothness—the freedom from dilution troubles—"better lubrication at lowered cost per mile!" Iso=Vis saves trouble—and saves money! 30c per quart at Standard Oil Service Stations and all licensed garages.

Skidmore Banker Is Fined $10 and Costs

W. S. Linville Found Guilty by Mayor of Disturbing Peace of the Rev. E. A. Demarest.

Alleging that he was the recipient of abusive language and that he was challenged to a fight on May 2, the Rev. Eugene A. Demarest, pastor of the Skidmore Christian Church, was the prosecuting witness yesterday in a police court case at Skidmore in which W. S. Linville, prominent Skidmore banker, was fined $10 and costs on charges of disturbing the peace.

The city of Skidmore was represented by Virgil Rathbun of Maryville. It was the first case in which Mr. Rathbun was the prosecuting lawyer. Mr. Linville was represented by W. A. Blagg of Maryville. The defendant notified the police judge that he would appeal to the circuit court.

The parties to the case waived a jury trial and the case was argued before Mayor Loucks. Most of the day was consumed in the trial, which was largely attended.

The case arose the early part of May when the Reverend Mr. Demarest was brought into the Skidmore police court with Mr. Linville as the complaining witness, on a charge of disturbing the peace. The pastor was fined $7.60 by Mayor Loucks. The pastor then turned the tables and claimed that Mr. Linville had distrubed his peace.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 15.—Lower cables gave wheat a setback early, and crop news was mainly satisfactory. Weather was favorable for harvesting in the Southwest. Export buying was small. The cash market was steady. Commission houses took wheat on the decline.

Corn was steady most of the session, after a good advance early. Best prices, however, were not held. Reports from Missouri stated the crop in that state is the latest in forty years. The cash demand was moderate with prices steady to ½ cent lower.

Oats were easy, also firm. The cash market was steady and unchanged.

Provisions were steady to a little lower.
